Research Interests

- PALAEOECOLOGY, PALEOCEANOGRAPHY, PALAECLIMATOLOGY:

The palaeoceanographic and paleoenvironmental research is devoted to interpreting the changes in the calcareous nannoplankton assemblages, linked to Pleistocene-Holocene paleoclimatic events. The areas investigated are in the Mediterranean Sea, the Atlantic Ocean, and the Antarctic.

- PROTECTION AND ENHANCEMENT OF PALEONTOLOGICAL HERITAGE

The research on paleontological heritage is dedicated to improving the actions of protection of this heritage and enhancing the education activity, developing a greater consciousness about the peculiarities of the heritage of geo-paleontological resources and proposing them as "driver elements" for the enhancement (also from a tourist point of view) of territories in the internal areas of southern Italy.

- BIOSTRATIGRAPHY:

The biostratigraphic research is focused on the analysis of the calcareous nannoplankton assemblages of the central and southern Apennines. This research provides the biostratigraphic constraints of the cinematic evolution of the chain and identifies new and more useful bio-events for the Mediterranean area.
